WILDSEED FARMS

Wildseed Farms has been around for more than 35 years, with more than 200 acres of wildflowers in Fredericksburg, and 1000+ acres around Texas! And the best part is they open their fields to wander around the trails, see the wildflowers, and take photos. There's also a Biergarten, a nursery and garden shop, a gift and home decor shop, and more! Click this link for more information about visiting: Wild Seed Farms.

Not interested in leaving Dallas to see their flowers? No problem! We've planted Wildseed Farms' pollinator flowers all along the perimeter of our west parking lot concrete beepad. Walk over any time to visit our Alveole beehive and see how our Lincoln Centre wildflowers are growing!

MEET CENTRE KITCHEN'S CHEF WAI

What made you decide to become a professional chef?

I started cooking early at the age of 14, at my mom's best friend's restaurant as a fry cook and wok cook. But when my mom was diagnosed with breast cancer, and had me cook a lot of the family meals, I knew this was the career path I wanted to do. Her passion and love for food was so infectious that it inspired me to be who I am today.

When cooking just for yourself, what's your go-to meal?

What's funny is chef's when we get off of work, we don't usually cook much unless, its for loved ones or a special occasion. But my go to meal no matter what, is a bowl of noodles. Whether it is PHO or Beef Noodle Soup, that's my jam!

Weirdest/most unique food you've ever tried?

I would have to say Ethiopian food. It was very primal using my hands as the vessel, but it opened my eyes even more to other cuisines and cultures. Loved it.

Favorite binge-worthy TV show and your favorite TV or movie watching snack?

Hands down "Anthony Bourdain's: Part's Unknown". That show is the core fundamental of who I am. Showcase other cultures through their food. His show made me realize no matter who you are, religion, political beliefs, sexual orientation, that we all can gather at a table and just enjoy great food. Favorite snack for me is Brown Butter and Ranch Kettle Corn. It's so addictive and something that we came up with purely by accident!

What are you most excited about for the Centre Kitchen?

Besides offering great food and awesome customer service, I'm most excited about getting things back to "normal". Giving our guests a place to gather and enjoy friends, food and family.
